

KEVIN QUIGLEY

RESEARCH & INNOVATION PSYCHOLOGIST
BA, MSc, C. Work & Org. Psychol. (Ps.S.I),
C. Psychol. (Ps.S.I)

AREAS OF CHANGE

Talent Management
Diversity & Inclusion
Psychometric profiling

SPECIAL INTERESTS

Kevin is passionate about helping people clarify their goals, ambitions and purpose and ultimately achieve their potential in life. Kevin also specialises in cognitive biases and decision making.

CONTACT INFORMATION

Kevin@seven.ie

ABOUT KEVIN

Kevin is a Business Psychologist focusing on research and innovation. He ensures the SEVEN team is informed on the latest thinking and trends in business psychology and how these connect to SEVEN's key areas of positive change.

WORK AT SEVEN

Kevin is an integral member of the SEVEN team, leading research and innovation across key areas of expertise. He enables the dissemination and application of research in the delivery of our services and solutions to clients. Kevin also manages the SEVENx7 research and innovation series.

Kevin facilitates workshops for clients on a wide range of topics including cognitive biases and giving and receiving feedback. He also designs and conducts qualitative and quantitative research on variety of topics such as Diversity & Inclusion and Organisational Trust. Kevin is currently completing a Higher Diploma in Data Analytics at the National College of Ireland.

LIFE BEFORE SEVEN

Previously, Kevin worked for Glanbia Business Services as a HR graduate, specialising in the recruitment of high potential graduates and highly skilled IT and finance professionals.

He also completed a BA Honours Degree in Psychology at University College Dublin in 2012. In 2013, he completed an MSc in Work Psychology and Business at Aston Business School, Birmingham. He also holds a BPS Certificate of Competence in Occupational Testing (Levels A and B).

APPROACH TO POSITIVE CHANGE

Kevin's approach to positive change is research-led in pursuit of innovation. Through his analytical skills and innovation mind-set, Kevin examines what we do at SEVEN and looks at how we can do things better by learning from what others are doing around the world.

Kevin undertakes continual professional development and he is currently undertaking a Diploma in Executive and Business Coaching with the Coaching and Mentoring Partnership in Dublin.

MORE ABOUT KEVIN

Kevin is a Chartered Psychologist with the Psychological Society of Ireland and a Chartered Work and Organisational Psychologist with the Division of Work and Organisational Psychology. Kevin has spoken at a number of PSI conferences and has published an article in the Irish Independent on time management.

In his free time, Kevin enjoys going to the gym and travelling to experience new cultures.

