ABOUT NISHA

Nisha is a Graduate Business Psychologist focusing on research and innovation. She ensures the SEVEN team is informed on the latest thinking and trends in business psychology and how these connect to SEVEN's key areas of positive change.

WORK AT SEVEN

Nisha supports client projects through the analysis and reporting of data, client delivery and project management. She is an integral member of the team, leading on research and innovation across our key areas of expertise. She enables the dissemination and application of research in the delivery of our services and solutions to clients, as well as leveraging the in-depth knowledge of the broader team to ensure that SEVEN remains at the forefront of our field.

LIFE BEFORE SEVEN

Nisha previously worked as a research assistant in the Institute of Education, developing a wellbeing assessment for students. She has extensive research experience through both work and education.

Nisha obtained a BSc in Psychology from Dublin City University, and recently completed an MSc in Work and Organisational Psychology at the University of Limerick.

APPROACH TO POSITIVE CHANGE

Nisha has a special interest in wellbeing at work and believes that this is a key element at the individual, team, and organisational level.

Nisha is highly motivated to further her professional development, particularly in the area of coaching, so that she may offer a greater range of services, and work to the highest standard.

MORE ABOUT NISHA

Nisha is a graduate member of the Psychological Society of Ireland and a member of the Association for Coaching. She is accredited in the administration and interpretation of psychometric ability tests with the British Psychological Society.

In her free time, Nisha enjoys playing tennis, sea-swimming, and travelling to new places.
